ST. ALBERT ON STURGEON PLAYERS

The St. Albert on Sturgeon Players once again guarantee an enjoyable evenings entertainment with their three one-act plays to be presented at the Paul Kane High School, December 9th and 12th. The first of these is "Hello Out There" a drama by William Saroyan. Bob Carlyle, a newcomer to the group, plays the young gambler who is wrongfully accused and jailed on a charge of rape. Bob is a writer for CFRN Radio and has acted with many amateur groups in Dawson Creek, Lloydminster, and also with the Vagabond Players in Vancouver. Carlee Adams, who has acted in many of our previous productions, and was assistant director for our last play, is the young girl who cooks for the jail. She is the only person who understands and believes in the young man. Both these characters are sincerely portrayed by Carlee and Bob.

Delores Knill and Bernard Venessa respectively, play the lying woman and her husband.

Joost Seepheyen, who will be missed on stage this time, is directing this play. Joost, who has been with the group for some time, is well known for his dynamic acting, and we look forward to seeing this play, his first attempt at directing.

The second play, "Another Way Out" was reviewed in a previous edition.

The third is "Shadow in the Glen" by John M. Syng and is being directed by Maureen Murphy.

Maureen is a drama teacher at Queen Elizabeth Composite School. She has acted with both Studio and Waverdale Theater and has also directed many times. Maureen has recently returned from a trip to Europe where she was able to see many plays. Her experience will prove invaluable to the group.

This play is a comedy about Irish peasants, in which Anne Geary and Peter Leonard are Nora and David Burke, the husband and wife.

Peter joined our group last spring and appeared in our last play. He is also a vigorous backstage worker, as he is designing and making the sets for this production.

This is Anne's first performance with our group, but she has acted before with Circle 8 in Edmonton.

John Van Imshoet plays the part of a shepherd, who is also the secret boyfriend of Nora Burke. John, who was our teenage member chosen to attend the Drama Seminar at Drumheller last summer has appeared in two of our previous productions.

Derek Webster, a local resident who has acted in amateur groups in England, plays the part of a tramp who is invited into the Burke's home and encounters quite a surprising situation involving the other three players.

Don't forget - Paul Kane High School December 9th and 12th.

Sunday MeditationsHow to Raise a Criminal

1. From the time he is a baby give him everything he wants. By the time he grows up he will believe the world owes him a living.
  2. Never give him any spiritual training. Wait until he is old enough to decide for himself. He'll really surprise you.
  3. When he uses bad words, laugh at him - this will make him think that he's cute. This will encourage him to increase his vocabulary of unprintable words.
  4. Never tell him he's WRONG. You will hurt his little feelings and perhaps develop a guilt complex. Later on, when he is arrested for breaking the law, he will recognize that society is persecuting him. He will be morally untouchable.
  5. Do everything for him. Pick up his clothes, his books and toys. Don't allow him to do any helpful work around the home. In this way you will prepare him for throwing all his responsibilities on other people.
  6. Give him all the money he wants. Spare him the undignified process of earning his own cash. Why should he have things as tough as you had them?
  7. Take his side against neighbors, teachers, and policemen. They are all picking on your child.
  8. Quarrel with your co-parent in front of him often. It will come as no shock when the home finally breaks up and you will have taught him the value of rugged independence.
  9. Go to parties every night and come home as late as possible. He will feel that you love him.
  10. Allow him to read all the printed rubbish he can get. Insist that he wears clean clothes, washes his hands and eats from sterilized dishes, but let his mind have contact with every possible filth and garbage.
  11. Satisfy every physical appetite that he has. Let him eat, drink and be merry. Self denial will blunt his personality.
  12. When at last the judge pronounces sentence on him and you are asked to explain his behaviour, tearfully tell him, "I never could do anything with him".
  13. Be ready for a life of grief. You planned it that way.
- From a police report out of Houston, Texas.

ANGLICAN CHURCHPartnership in the Gospel Report

This was presented to the congregation during the service on Sunday last. In reporting, Mr. F. Glenfield thanked all those who had worked so hard to ensure success. Results are still coming in, but it is clear that a large increase over last year's results, with respect to finance, is assured. A considerable body of information has also been gathered as to the part individuals would like to play in the ongoing church life. Whilst the first phase of the partnership program is now successfully concluded, Mr. Glenfield pointed out that the program will continue throughout the year at a less intensive, but deeper level. In addition, many of the project and offers of help which became known during the program can now be developed and put to use.

The Anglican Young People will meet on December 6th at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. & Mrs. J. B. Roe, 9 Spruce Cres. (Please enter at the rear). All Anglican young people are invited to attend, and contribute their suggestions for future programs.

Adult confirmation classes are now in progress. The class meets at 4 Sable Cres. on Sunday afternoons from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. New members can still join the class this coming Sunday.
